

Our Policy and Politics Practice

Practicing at the intersection of law and public policy, for decades we have represented clients in the political and policy-making arenas. Our lawyers have worked inside and outside government on some of the most consequential public policy matters in modern Oregon history. That experience pairs strategic savvy with technical know-how to navigate the legal, political, and governmental landscape in pursuit of our clients' goals.

Political Law

Our Political Law practice group represents participants in the political process on matters including:

- Election Law
- Initiative & Referendum
- Ballot Titles
- Campaign Finance Regulation
- Lobbying Regulation

Government Law

Our Government Law practice group represents private and public clients in matters involving the intricacies of state and local government, including:

- Government Power & Authority
- Government Ethics
- Open Meetings and Public Records
- Public Contracting
- Public Entity Litigation
- Public Employees Retirement System
- Eminent Domain
- Civil Rights

Constitutional Law

We are often called upon to give our opinion on the correct interpretation of the Oregon and United States Constitutions to local governments and the Oregon legislature, and we have successfully litigated state and federal constitutional issues in state and federal courts, including the United States Supreme Court.

Government Relations and Strategies

When businesses, trade groups, and other organizations are faced with regulatory and legal hurdles in the way of accomplishing their objectives, they look to our firm for assistance in navigating around these barriers in order to accomplish their objectives.
